

COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT IN THE 'NEW EUROPE'

A SPECIAL ISSUE OF THE COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT JOURNAL
VOLUME 40 NUMBER 4, OCTOBER 2005
EDITED BY GARY CRAIG & PAUL HENDERSON

In March 2004, a major conference on community development in the 'new Europe' was held in Budapest, Hungary, to mark the accession of a further ten nation states, most of them in the east and central European region, to the European Union.

This issue of the CDJ includes a broadly representative selection of the key speeches made and papers presented at the conference. The CDJ hopes that the conference, the Declaration and the events that have followed, together with these papers, will inspire community development activists in other parts of the world to pursue similar strategies both in terms of the use that can be made at local nation state level to promote the profile of community development, but also because of the inherent value of exchanging experience, knowledge and skills between different countries.

ORDER FORM

I would like to order ___ issue(s) at the price of £11.00/$19.00 each

I enclose the correct payment (please make cheques payable to Oxford University Press)

Please debit my American Express/Mastercard/Diners/Visa card

Card number _____ / _____ / _____ / _____

Start date ____ / ____ Expiry date ____ / ____

Signature _____

Name (please print) _____

Address _____

Postcode _____ Country _____

Please return to:

Oxford Journals, Marketing Department, Oxford University Press, Great Clarendon Street,
Oxford, OX2 6DP, UK

Fax: +44 (0) 1865 267835 Email: Jnls.mkt@oxfordjournals.org

EU59B18

